2. ACCOUNTING POLICIES - continued

Financial instruments

The Company holds or issues financial instruments in order to finance its operations. Various financial instruments, for example trade debtors and creditors, arise directly from the company's operations. Transactions involving financial instruments result in the Company assuming or transferring to another party one or more of the following financial risks:-

Liquidity risk

The Company manages its cash and borrowing requirements in order to minimise interest expense, whilst ensuring the company has sufficient liquid resources to meet the operating needs of the business. Cash flows are forecast and monitored on a regular basis.

Credit risk

Trade debtors are monitored on an ongoing basis and provision is made against doubtful debts for the proportion of the debts which are considered to be irrecoverable. Bad debts are written off at the point where the probability of a recovery becomes unlikely. Exposure to credit risk is limited by the monitoring of customer risk profiles using both internal and external sources. Appropriate action is taken with customers to limit the associated credit risks where a change in risk is identified.
